

watch and discovers that the Mirotonieum Activator has not been activated from the reading on his digital watch; he is unaware that his Cynics have been assassinated in the Space Shuttle Atlas. He is confident that his team of highly trained Cynics achieved all objectives. He appoints several Cynics to follow him as they go scuba diving into the river to investigate. The other Cynics are to remain to pull security on the Karkase Air Strykers to escape once the icecaps begin melting away and before Florida sinks to the bottom of the Atlantic. Desert Eagle and his appointed warriors gear up into their scuba diving gear. There is a warrior that escorts them within range of the grid coordinates. Desert Eagle and the search team fall backwards from the edge of the boats emerging into the river. A few minutes later Anaconda and his Cynics also gear up to provide maintenance on the Mirotonieum Activator. Anaconda and Desert Eagle are clueless that they are located directly opposite from each other. A few minutes later after preliminary checks on their equipment, the maintenance team follows the same grid coordinates, but approaches from a different angle. One of his Cynics recognizes the warrior that sits alone on the boat. He surrenders the binoculars from his eyes and notifies Anaconda that an enemy is present.

Anaconda reaches for his crossbow that contains explosives. He aims at the enemy on the boat and releases the arrow that contains explosives. The warrior takes cover and is relieved after viewing the arrow injected into the entrance of the cabin.

The warrior continues to take cover, while he tries to notify his chain of command that Karkase is present. Anaconda replies, "It ain't over, motherfucker," and releases another arrow at the fuel tank on the boat, causing an enormous explosion. Anaconda smiles at the remains of the fallen warriors and observes the debris from the boat and body parts floating in the river. He recognizes the potential threat of the enemy and grabs his harpoon before venturing into the river. Desert Eagle and his rescue team are approaching the Mirotonium Activator. Desert Eagle decides to probe for any booby traps or potential safety hazards. There is one rebellious warrior that is impatient and he decides to extricate the Saturnoplium receiver. He fails miserably as the Mirotonium Activator sends out a current causing his oxygen tank to explode when it came within a fifty-meter radius. Desert Eagle nods his head at the remains of the rebellious warrior. He reaches for a magnetic current controlling device that is designed to absorb the current used to cause an explosion. Unfortunately, it is only effective underwater. Anaconda continues to follow the trail to the Mirotonium Activator. He encounters Desert Eagle pursuing to seize his invention. Anaconda becomes furious and decides to take drastic measures. He aims his harpoon at Desert Eagle, who is moments away from taking custody of the Mirotonium Activator. He squeezes the trigger, but a warrior recognizes that Desert Eagle is in danger. He pushes him aside, saving him from the hands of death. Desert Eagle and his search party return fire toward Anaconda and his Cynics. Anaconda recognizes that he is outnumbered even after he has eliminated two of the Katalambano warriors. Anaconda and his Cynics retreat from the Katalambano, making an escape before more warriors providing reinforcement arrive on the scene. Desert Eagle notifies Suju and the Dynamic Trio that the Mirotonieum Activator has been successfully obtained. After he notifies Suju and the Dynamic Trio, he walks over to the warrior that saved his life and gives him dap. The warrior removes the mask to reveal his identity. To Desert Eagle's surprise, it is not a man, but Jade Fox.

Desert Fox: You disobeyed a lawful order. I told you to stand fast and wait until I return.

Desert Eagle is pissed off as he walks away from Jade Fox.

Jade Fox: I guess I can't believe this shit! I save his ass and all I get in return is a bad attitude. Ungrateful!
